Mission statement

The House of Architecture (HDA), founded in 1988, is a non-profit organisation focussing on promoting architecture and high-quality building culture. It works within the context of culture, social policy, education policy and economy. The HDA's work is based on a comprehensive concept of architecture as a vital factor in these fields, and on actively monitoring and working with relevant developments.

The HDA pursues the following aims: to provide a platform for all branches of architecture, urban development and spatial planning; to act in the interests of different social groups; to cooperate with related disciplines; to act as a point of contact for all matters regarding building culture. The HDA sees itself as a thematic platform that is open to all interested persons.
