The screenshot displays the homepage of videolectures.net. At the top, there is a navigation bar with a search box and a 'SIGN IN / NEW USER' button. Below this, a grid of video lecture thumbnails is shown, each with a title, view count, and duration. The featured video is 'Lecture 18: Boundary Conditions for Dielectrics - Index of Refraction' by Walter H. G. Lewin. Other videos include 'Pomočimo prste v socialno percipajo: ali je vid družaben čut?' by Hana Hawlina, 'Photosensitive titanium oxide sols and gels for solar energy conversion' by Mireille Richard, 'BLEWS: Using Blogs to Provide Context for News Articles' by Michael Gamon, Sumit Basu, et al., 'Phase separation of CSort 72 dipeptide repeats perturbs stress granule' by Steven Boeynaems, and 'Optimising the Topology of Complex Neural Networks' by Robert Griffioen.

Below the video grid, there are three main sections: 'WATCHING NOW' with a list of trending topics like 'Deep Learning (DLSS) and Neural Networks', 'NEWS' with articles such as 'Just added videos from the European Network to Cure ALS meeting' and 'We just added videos from the Deep Learning and Reinforcement Learning Summer School', and 'NEWSLETTER' with a subscription form. A 'RECENT EVENTS' section highlights the 'CLARIN Annual Conference 2016' and 'CLARIN-PLUS Workshop 2016 - Leuven'. A 'CATEGORIES' sidebar on the left lists various academic fields with their respective video counts, such as 'Architecture (247)', 'Arts (394)', and 'Computer Science (12591)'. At the bottom right, a chat window indicates '1 person in chat'.

Main objective of the pilot project between participating hospitals is to:

- provide concrete common web based educational materials in different educational topics related to the pilot cases,
- create experience with their practical use for hospitals,
- strengthen digital competence of users in different institutions to be able to use web based educational materials and platforms and cooperatively work,
- validate the developed model for further development and sustainable use.
